MORE LIVESTOCK IS NEEDED

The Shortage of Animals in This Country Calls for Improved Methods of Breeding.

The shortage of animal products in this country should be a stimulus to improved livestock production. There has not been such a great shortage in the livestock population in proportion to the human population in many years. It is doubtful if there has ever been so great a shortage of livestock in view of the needs of humanity.

It has been repeatedly said by men acquainted with conditions that the wise livestockman will not only continue in the business, but increase his holdings. A good many farmers, however, have hesitated until recently to increase their livestock because of unusual conditions. High prices and the urgent need for increased production have induced farmers and livestockmen to increase production. This is a good time therefore for a step toward more profitable production,

The advantages of community livestock breeding which existed before the war still hold good, and present conditions emphasize the importance Miss Marjorie Carpenter of Kansas of community breeding more than Wonderful progress Beta Kappa, the highest honor award- could be made in livestock improveed in the academic department of the ment if the increase which unfoubtuniversity, the other day. Grow Grain in Western Canada, Time for Sociability.

The nation-wide cry of "More Efficlency" has now reached even the most remote agricultural sections and there is a general interest amongst the farmers to increase their products and to reduce their expenses. The need of foodstuffs is greater than the world has ever before known, and every effort is being used to meet the world's Ordinarily we do not need the help food requirements, becoming more apparent every day. While it is true that this desire is attested by a general patriotism, there is an underlying factor in this extension work to secure some of the benefits that are delphia Ledger. being offered by a ready market at maximum prices. Wide-spread atten-

This is made possible by the low priced lands that can be secured for grain growing. The range in price runs from $15 to $25 per acre, according to location and other local conditions. In this period of "more ngricultural efficiency" it is apparent at a glance that the farmer on low priced but high grade lands, growing his grain at a minimum cost, is reaping a golden harvest with the highest per-ntage of profit. The cultivator of high priced farm lands has a big handtcap to overcome in computing his profits on a $200 an acre farm as compared with the agriculturist reaping as great, if not greater return from $25 an acre land. It therefore becomes a question for the farmer himself to answer, whether he is doing himself and his country the best service, by devoting all his energles to working high priced land that yields no better return than land that can be secured at one-eighth the price. It is a case of getting either minimum or offiximum quantity. Many have already decided on the alternative, and with their spare money invested in and now working Western Canada lands, they are allowed to speak for themselves. Apparently they are satisfied, for we learn of cases where on a $4,000 investment, in one year they have had their money back. with a profit of from 50% to 100%. Such is one of the steps in progressiveeffort to create greater efficiency. The Canadian Government is using every effort to bring these conditions to the attention of the agricultural world, in order to secure the necessary increased grain production so greatly needed. The furmer in Western Canada is exempt from all personal taxes. His buildings, stock and implements are not assessed; and every encouragement is given to farmers to improve and increase their farm output. Refuced rallway rates are being offered to new settlers to look over the country and to size up an unprecedented opportunity in farming. - Advertisement.
